Subject: Microsoft punished for violating the law- must be tough

To all of the Attorney Generals,

Please do not let Microsoft off with such light punishment. They knew what they were doing and are showing the world, with enough money and guts you can bluff your way out of anything. They are still grinding up business after business in the same egotistical way they did in the past. They crush competition by getting into that market and with so much money in the war chest are monopolizing even more. They are now doing browsers, service providers, software, television, what is next? Maybe here in Seattle I will soon be working for MS Boeing !!!!

They did the crime, its time they did the punishment. Its your job to set it up according to the law, so they and others won't again. If you are too soft it gives them and everyone who will copy cat a green light to try it again.

Sincerely,

Lana Weed
